Promoting and protecting the Bill of Rights,
especially the Second Amendment

January, 2021 – Volume 2, Issue 1

In Support of Freedom

New Year, New Look!

Happy New Year everyone! As Im4Rights enters year two of its existence, we thought we should spruce up the look and feel of our newsletter. We're moving to more of a single article format where each article is presented in its entirety... no more jumping from page to page to finish an article. Hopefully, each article will keep your attention, and you'll look forward to reading the next one. In 2021, Im4Rights, LLC is setting goals rather than resolutions. As a young (and so far, struggling) enterprise, our goals are simple:

- Continue to fight against the loss of our liberties and freedoms as enumerated in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.
- Increase production of videos and other social media content.
- Increase subscribers, viewers, readers across all platforms
- Increase donations to non-profit organizations that support and protect the Bill of Rights, especially the Second Amendment.

In order to achieve these goals, I'll need your assistance. If you are concerned about the evaporation of your rights, please spread the word about Im4Rights. Support our efforts by subscribing to the various social media outlets and becoming a patron on Patreon. Same Shit, Different Year?

What does 2021 have in store for us? Will it just be a continuation of 2020 or could it be even worse? As I write this on New Year's Day, there is a supposed President-elect waiting to take office amid an effort by some Republicans to steal back the election on January 6th. Will it work? If not, will Trump go peacefully? Regardless, who the President is on January 21st, there will be unrest, and possibly violent unrest.

Then, there is the whole COVID thing. Vaccinations have begun, and will likely be required in order to partake in the "privilege" of going to school, work, or traveling. Ironically, but not surprisingly, there is no guarantee that getting the vaccination will keep you from getting COVID, just like the flu shot doesn't guarantee you won't get the flu. There have been cases of adverse side effects reported, which is no surprise either, given the "warp speed" at which the vaccines have been developed and deployed. Now, we're being told of the new "UK-variant" of COVID that is purported to be 70 times more infectious than the previous strain. The supposed good news is that it doesn't make you any sicker or more likely to die, it's just easier to catch, and the current vaccines are likely to prevent it as well. I predict this new strain will be the perfect excuse for the tyrants, drunk on the power we've given them, to institute more lockdowns and draconian measures in the name of public safety.

With the uncertainties surrounding the Presidential situation and the continuing COVID debacle, there remains, as always, a need to be prepared for any eventuality. Do you have what you need in the way of food, shelter, water, medical, and self-defense? These are just the essential categories. Those of us in hurricane landing areas are familiar with the recommended 7-day supply of food and water for each member of the household including pets; however, non-perishable food should be stocked to the gills with an initial goal of a 3-month supply, and then keep adding. Canned goods, dry goods, freeze-dried foods, and dehydrated foods are all good options. Even though they are merely suggestions, watch your expiration dates, and rotate your stocks – consuming the oldest foods first.

"Bubba" the Freedom Truck

Bubba the Freedom Truck has come home to Tampa after a number of years at my relative's place in North Florida. Sadly, until now, I have not had the time and money to keep up with maintenance and repair, so he is in pretty rough shape. He does run, and successfully towed my car home when I went to pick him up. The plan is to address all the drivetrain issues first, and then start on the bodywork. My hope is one day Bubba will be seen toting a toy-hauler travel trailer around the country, serving as the mobile headquarters for Im4Rights. Stay tuned for more updates on the ultimate Bug-out Truck.
